A Guide to Locating Photographs of Colonial Ceylon

2nd edition

American Institute for Sri Lankan Studies

June 2022

This publication documents collections of photographs of Ceylon (now Sri Lanka) taken in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. It is hoped that it will lead to the increased use of these valuable holdings. Although coverage is not comprehensive, it includes collections in a wide range of institutions worldwide, as well as a few private collections. While there are some important holdings in Sri Lanka, many of the more substantial collections are elsewhere, particularly in the United Kingdom and the United States. Photographs produced by professional photographers and firms were often sold to tourists and other travelers, who took them back to their home countries, and placed them in albums along with images from other places they visited. Another reason for the relative lack of collections in Sri Lanka itself is that its climate is not conducive to the preservation of paper, and some of the photographs and glass plate negatives that remained in the country suffered damage.

The main section of this guide describes the various collections, which are organized by country. An increasing number of institutions have made at least part of their collection available online, and this guide provides the relevant links. It is followed by a list of books that include Ceylon photographs, and a select bibliography of secondary sources on photography in colonial Ceylon. An appendix gives a detailed description of the large collection at Plâté in Colombo.

AISLS wishes to thank Benita Stambler, at the time Coordinator of Asian Art at the John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota, Florida, who compiled the first edition, which appeared in November 2014. We are very grateful for all the hard work she put into this effort. Daniel Bass also helped prepare the first edition for publication.

This second edition was prepared by Ifadha Sifar, Philip Friedrich, and Mithsandi Seneviratne. Phusathi Liyanaarachchi helped prepare the document for publication. AISLS would also like to thank Janice Leoshko for her advice throughout the revisions process.

This work is published on the AISLS website, <https://www.aisls.org>. It may be circulated freely, but other rights are reserved by AISLS. This guide is an ongoing project, so comments, corrections or suggestions for additions are very welcome.

Collections of Ceylon Photographs, circa 1850-1915

This section lists institutions, libraries, individuals and websites that hold collections of photographs from colonial Ceylon, with an emphasis on the period from 1850--1915. When possible, directions for obtaining access to the photographs are provided. Some collections are fully or partially available online. Links to such images have been provided. Information about permissions and ordering high-resolution reproductions is often available online.

Each entry includes the following information, to the extent it is applicable and available.

- o Repository or holding institution, with website link.
- o Description of holdings.
- o Indexing or cataloging information.
- o Availability of online images, procedures for ordering high resolution images or prints, locations where images can be consulted and conditions for access, rights and reproduction information.
- o Dates of photographs, creator of the collection, photographers, condition of photographs, and other relevant information

Description:	This website hosts the collections of Nationaal Museum van Wereldculturen (Tropenmuseum, Afrika Museum, and Museum Volkenkunde) and the Wereldmuseum Rotterdam. To locate photographs, type “Ceylon” into the main search page, and limit to photographs. This yields 219 photographs (including postcards and stereoviews), but many are post-1915. Pre-1915 photos include portraits (women, Veddas, Burgher kindergarten), landscapes (Nuwara Eliya, Peradeniya, Kandy, Colombo, Anuradhapura, Ramboda, Dambulla. Mount Lavinia, Galle, Pidurutalagala, Trincomalee) and other sights (bullock carts, railroads, tea picking, coffee production, harbors, pearl divers). Additionally, there are several albums listed whose contents are not specified. Many titles are in Dutch. All photos are provided with approximate dates. The list view provides thumbnails, titles and dates for each photograph. The collection also contains approximately fifty additional photographs that are not online. Photographers’ names are not generally provided, though some photographs were taken by the major studios.

Description:	The Photography Division of the National Museum in Colombo maintains a collection of glass plate negatives. No comprehensive list of the holdings has been compiled. Generally, these negatives are undated, so it is unclear how many fall within the scope of this guide. Some of the glass plate negatives are originals, while others are copies. They are kept within a cabinet in the Photography Division. Holdings include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a glass plate copy of a portrait of Governor Hercules George Robert Robinson (Governor of Ceylon, 1865-1872)</li> <li>• original glass plate negatives of objects in the museum's collection, e.g., chairs and furniture, ivory combs</li> <li>• approximately 150 4"x3" glass plate negatives</li> <li>• approximately 450 5"x6" glass plate negatives</li> <li>• an unknown number of 12"x14" glass plate negatives; the subjects of these large format negatives are animals in the wild (elephants, deer, crocodiles), given as a gift to the museum.</li> <li>• Kodak and Ilford glass plates of such objects as lizards, which are also in the collection of the museum.</li> </ul> The museum may also have glass plate negatives of photographs taken by commercial firms in Sri Lanka but, again, no definitive listing is maintained. Some of the negatives have a number associated with them, but the meaning of the number is so far undetermined by the museum staff. For permission to view any of these items, it is necessary to write to the Director of the Museum, Sir Marcus Fernando Mawatha, Colombo 7. The museum can make copies of the negatives it owns, and will calculate a charge for the service.

Department of Archaeology, Sri Lanka
Link:	http://www.archaeology.gov.lk
Description:	The Department of Archaeology has two relevant collections. There is a set of four albums of photographs by Joseph Lawton of ancient sites, probably taken in 1870 and 1871. They are in need of conservation – brittle, faded, ripped, eaten by insects – and will be conserved under a project being undertaken by The National Trust Sri Lanka. Some of the albums provide a title and brief description of each photograph. However, according to the staff of the Department, this information is not reliable. The following is a partial listing of the photographs. The Department does not maintain a comprehensive list. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Volume I: Anuradhapura (no English labels) Many views of columns, dagobas, Sri Maha Bodhi tree, Isurumuniya Image House (outside and inside), Sigiriya guardian stones (several photos), moonstone, bodhi tree, tanks/pokuna, Western Monastery, Buddha's footprints, Tuparama</li> <li>• Volume II: Mihintale (titles and brief descriptions) Includes Tank in Mihintale, Naga Pokuna, Inscriptions, Mihintale Steps, King Devanampiya Tissa, Natural Rock Arch (bed of Mahindo), Mihintale Dagoba, Malwatta, Kaludiya Pokuna, newly discovered sites, bathing area, Katariya – drip cuts, rock caves and ruins, steps with elephants (considerable insect damage)</li> <li>• Volume III: [not examined]</li> <li>• Volume IV: Polonnaruwa and Sigiriya Includes Lankathilaka Image House, Abhayagiri Dagoba, pokuna, Samadhi Buddha, guardian stones, Sigiriya fortified rock including retaining walls, rock fortress, Minneria – mutilated stone figures, Minneria – the tank, statue of King Pakrama Bahu, Gal Vihara (sitting and standing Buddhas, distant views), Polonnaruwa Dagoba, Tuparama, close-up of steps</li> </ul> Other copies of many of these photographs taken by Lawton are found in other collections, for instance at the Victoria and Albert Museum and Cambridge University.

	Additionally, the Department has a collection of what was originally about 800 other glass negatives. Some appear to be missing, others broken. They are of Anuradhapura, Polonnaruwa, Sigiriya, etc. and were taken after 1890, but more specific dating does not seem possible. Although the Department will make prints from the glass negatives for an unspecified charge, there is no listing of the collection, and the staff is not able to definitively identify the sites.
Contact Details/Copyright Information:	To access any of these resources it is necessary to request permission from the Director General of the Department of Archaeology Sri Lanka, Sir Marcus Fernando Mawatha, Colombo 7. To expedite a response to the request, a copy should be sent to Mr. Anuwa Manathunga, a Director assigned to assist in such requests, at the same address.

Description:	The National Archives maintains the Times of Ceylon photograph files in a cabinet in the reading room. The records are on index cards, all handwritten. Each card contains titles, a mounted number (no indication what this represents) and an index number, which indicates the envelope in which the photograph(s) is kept. There are no indications of dates or other information, but most, if not all, appear to be later than the period covered by this project. Cards are alphabetic, sometimes written on both sides, but not alphabetized within each card. There are 42 index cards under the heading "Ceylon," but they are all later than the project period. Among the photographs under the Ceylon heading are: <table border="1"> <tr> <td>Beggars</td><td>4839</td></tr> <tr> <td>Ella pass (Ella Rest House)</td><td>245</td></tr> <tr> <td>Ferries (also 4801)</td><td>4464</td></tr> <tr> <td>Fire walking</td><td>2703A</td></tr> <tr> <td>Fruit seller</td><td>485</td></tr> </table>	Beggars	4839	Ella pass (Ella Rest House)	245	Ferries (also 4801)	4464	Fire walking	2703A	Fruit seller	485

	There is a form to complete for each item requested. There appears to be a limit of the number of requests that can be submitted at one time, e.g., three or four. When it is determined which photos are requested, a staff member will retrieve the packet in which the photo is stored. For reproduction requests, a form needs to be completed, which requires such information as the requesting person, the size of the photo, etc. From this, the cost is determined, including a separate charge for postage. Items can be scanned for digital copies. Some of the photographs appear to be retouched, and some are labeled in Sinhala only, while others have the accompanying newspaper text on the back. The People of Ceylon, folder 243, contains 184 photos, including those of Veddas, snake charmers, pilgrims, tribes and gypsies. Their dates range from 1949 to 1982. The Isurumuniya folder, 962A, contains 125 photos, including ceremonies, necklaces discovered during excavations and photos of politicians, with dates ranging from 1957 through 1984. The Scenes folder, 4752, has 31 photos, and the William Skeen folder has one undated sketch of the photographer and a few other miscellaneous items. These dates may be the dates of the issue of the newspaper in which the photographs appeared.

Ismeth Raheem Collection, Sri Lanka
Link:
Description:	This collection contains a variety of photographs, individually and in albums and books. One album is entitled, "Mr. Gabriel B. Worms, Views of the Island of Ceylon, 1868." This was probably created for Mr. Worms, a prominent coffee planter in Pussellawa, after his return to England. (The Worms brothers, nephews of Baron Rothschild, had extensive, well-maintained coffee estates in Ceylon, and are considered instrumental in the introduction of tea to Ceylon.) This album documents some of the work of the first generation of commercial photographers in Ceylon. It includes a photograph of the Royal Mail Coach to Kandy, the first such firm in Asia (established in 1832) to transport passengers, in this case from Kandy to Colombo. The service was curtailed in 1866 when the rail link between the two locations was established.

Plâté, Sri Lanka
Link:	https://www.platelimited.com/vintage-photography.html
Description:	Plâté &amp; Co., Ltd. was one of the premier commercial photography firms in Ceylon/Sri Lanka from its inception in 1890. Its adaptability is apparent from its continued existence for more than 120 years. As the commercial environment for photography changed, Plâté began to sell postcards of its photographs. The postcards were produced outside of Sri Lanka, mostly in Europe. The original photographs were sent abroad to the printers, and the postcards were shipped back to Sri Lanka. Thus, many of the original negatives are no longer available in Sri Lanka. Plâté &amp; Co., Ltd. has been making an attempt to capture as much of the historical legacy by buying back, whenever possible, postcards, negatives and photographs. As time and staff permit, they have been cataloging what they have, but it is an overwhelming task. Some initial handwritten and typed lists are available, but computerized listings are incomplete. The following provides some indication of the current categories, available images and ordering information. The collection is particularly strong in images taken between 1890 and 1910, the heyday of both Plâté's photographic production and the historical market for Ceylon postcards. The negatives the firm has recovered have been safely stored, and are used to reproduce the image collection. The firm uses both digital and analog processes to create black-and-white or sepia-toned prints of the photographs. That is, reproductions are made usually by creating modern photographs from early negatives. As of June 2022, Plâté &amp; Co., Ltd. held 6,152 negatives, not all necessarily unique, plus another approximately 1,000 glass negatives. The glass negatives are of three different sizes: 2"x2", 8"x6", 12"x10". With the additional collection of approximately 6,000 postcards, the firm holds between 12,000 and 15,000 images. The cataloging information provided for each of the negatives is the date acquired, a sequential number, a brief description (often including an approximate date), whether it is black-and-white or color, and the quantity of negatives received of each image at that particular time. Some of the available reproductions are not necessarily from original

	photographs. They may be lithographs or drawings, newspaper illustrations, religious imagery, and other formats. The original source of the lithographs and etchings may not be indicated. This list focuses specifically on the photographs. Many that are reproduced from postcards were created from photographs by the Plâté firm. Almost all of the photographs are reproduced from original Plâté works, rather than the output of the other commercial firms of the island. The brief description may contain information such as date taken. Acquisition information is more comprehensive in some periods than at other times. The spelling of place names varies. Images are not available online. The appendix to this guide provides the following additional information: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Section 1: List of categories of photographs in the collection.</li> <li>• Section 2: Sample acquisition register.</li> <li>• Section 3: Complete listing of Category #13, Hotels and Clubs, 1850-1915 only.</li> <li>• Section 4: Selected images not commonly found in other collections.</li> <li>• Section 5: Sample postcard album; complete listing of Postcard Album #7.</li> </ul> The collection is particularly strong with regard to tea processing at the end of the nineteenth century. Plâté produced a series of prints detailing commercial tea production. Original prints are held in a series of photograph albums, Tea Industry Pictures Circa 1890, Plâté Limited – Ceylon. These prints, though some show signs of water damage, provide detailed and crisp images. Book No. 1 includes a “Supplementary List of Tea Industry Pictures” of possibly 90 different views of the process. (Some have duplicative titles but appear to be different views of the same subject.) Subjects include a tea nursery, a tea pluckers, a withering-loft (upper room of a tea factory devoted to withering), and an estate bungalow. For additional information on postcards created from their photographic output, see Plâté’s Ceylon, http://www.harappa.com/post4/ceylon0.html.

Rohan de Soysa Collection, Sri Lanka
Link:
Description:	This collection contains approximately thirty photographs, including one of Dutch prisoners of the Boer War held in a detainment camp in Sri Lanka in 1900-1902. This photograph, published in the Auckland Weekly News of May 17, 1901, is of special interest since there is little available visual documentation of this unique aspect of Sri Lankan history.

	Further information regarding this prisoner of war camp may be found in the Journal of the Dutch Burgher Union of Ceylon: http://thedutchburgherunion.org/dbu-journals/. This includes articles from the following issues: Vol. XVIII January 1929 No. 3 The Boers at Diyatalawa, Vol. XXXVI July 1946 No. 1, Vol. XXXVI October 1946 No. 2, Vol. XXXVI January 1947 No. 3, Vol. XXXVII April 1947 No. 4, and Vol. XXXVIII July 1947 No 1., all of which contain anecdotes and information regarding these prisoners.

Description:	The British Library has 30,000 images online. A search for “Ceylon” AND “photograph” in the search box of the link above provides 156 images. Only about 120 of them are of Ceylon, but each has a full record detailing photographer, date and information about the content of the photograph. Many are by Frederick Fiebig, an early photographer in Ceylon.

	Additional photographs that are not available online may be found in the Explore Archives and Manuscripts catalogue (which contains the records of the now defunct India Office Select Materials catalogue). Searching is possible by specifying the subject matter, place, dates, etc. Many are held in the collections listed below. Only collections with four or more photographs of Ceylon are listed here. For more information, see:  https://www.bl.uk/subjects/south-asia.

Collection includes about 2,400 glass and 1,280 nitrate negatives from 1900-1940. The number of images taken in Ceylon is

	unclear. Between 25-50 percent of the negatives are photographic reproductions of other photographs and published images, many of which were used to illustrate books and articles by Coomaraswamy and others. Most of the photographic prints are contact prints that correspond to the negatives and were probably made at a later date. Most of the photographs were taken by Ananda K. Coomaraswamy and some were possibly taken by his first wife Ethel Mary. Digital images on CD-ROM of 2,456 photographs and 35 mm slides are available in repository for reference use. Also, contact prints are available for most negatives. Inventory available in repository. No images online.

Selected List of Publications Containing Ceylon Photographs, circa 1850-1915

During this period, the technology for illustrating books and journals was in transition, moving from engravings, to engravings produced from photographs, and finally to photographs. Publications with engravings are included here if they reference the photographic source. Most of the books remain available, sometimes in full-text online versions. When additional editions or reprints are known, the dates are provided.

This list covers publications that include numerous photographs, and also includes a sample of the many works with fewer images.

"A Tropical Garden." Garden and Forest, Volume 1, Issue 19, July 4, 1888, pp. 222-223. Engraving of "A Tropical Garden" (entrance to Peradeniya) from a photograph. [Full text online, at the Library of Congress, The Nineteenth Century in Print: Periodicals.]

Allaire, E.M. "A Week with the Singhalese." Outing, Vol. XXX1, Issue 5, February 1898, pp. 465-471. Eight photographs of Kandy, chieftains, tea plantations, Temple of the Tooth. [Full text online.]

Balding, J. W. One Hundred Years in Ceylon or the Centenary Volume of the Church Mission Society in Ceylon, 1818-1918. Madras: Diocesan Press, 1922. Photographs of churches, schools, Jaffna, Kandy. Includes H. Cave photographs. [Full text online.]

Bell, H.C.P. Archaeological Survey of Ceylon, North-Central, Northern, and Central Provinces. Annual Report, 1907. Colombo: H.C. Cottle, 1911. Thirty-two photographs of ruins in Anuradhapura and Polonnaruwa. [Full text online.]

Brohier, Richard L. Changing Face of Colombo. Colombo: Lake House Printers and Publishers, 1984. [Includes early photographs of Wolvendaal Church, Colombo fort ramparts, the Colombo-Kandy mail coach and the earliest Cargill's Department Store building.]

Burrows, Stephen Montagu. The Buried Cities of Ceylon: A Guide Book to Anuradhapura and Polonnaruwa. Colombo: A.M. & J. Ferguson, 1894/1905. Contains Skeen photographs, and an index by Colombo Apothecaries Company of photographic views of the ancient cities of Ceylon. [Full text online, low-resolution.]

Cave, Henry. The Ruined Cities of Ceylon. London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co., 1896-1907. Describes Anuradhapura and Polonnaruwa. Photos taken by the author. [Full text online.]

Cave, Henry. The Book of Ceylon: Being a Guide to its Railway System and an Account of its Varied Attractions for the Visitor and Tourist. London: Cassell & Co., 1904-1912. [Combines Cave's volumes on Colombo and the Kelani Valley, Kandy,

Nuwara Eliya, and the Northern Provinces. Photos taken by the author. Full text online.]

Cave, Henry. The Ceylon Government Railway. London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co., 1910. Sometimes titled Ceylon Along the Rail Track. Photos taken by the author. [Full text online.]

Secondary Sources on Photography in Ceylon, circa 1850-1915

This bibliography of descriptive and critical works on photography in Ceylon covers the period 1850-1915. It includes major works that focus on the career of Julia Margaret Cameron, a well-known photographer spent most of her career in England, but who lived in Ceylon the last four year of her life, from 1875 to 1879.

Appendix: Guide to the Collection at Plâté, Colombo

The following information supplements the overview of Plâté provided in the general list of photograph collections. Because of the importance of this collection and its extensive holdings, the following additional information is provided, in five sections:

- o Section 1: List of categories of photographs in the collection
- o Section 2: Sample acquisition register
- o Section 3: Complete listing of Category 13, Hotels and Clubs, 1850-1915 only
- o Section 4: Selected images not commonly found in other collections
- o Section 5: Sample postcard album; complete listing of Postcard Album 7

Section 1: List of categories of photographs in the collection

Distinct from the sequential numbering system, the following are the categories in which the photographs are organised and available for public perusal. The major numbers below reflect the “cupboards” in which the photographs are kept, and the lettering represents the packets in which they are filed within the cabinets. Some additional images are kept in drawers, listed at the end. The categories provide an indication of the range of subject matter. It should be noted that multiple images from different vantage points may exist for the more popular subject matter and may have the same descriptive title.

Section 5: Sample postcard album; complete listing of Postcard Album 7

Much of the Plâté & Co., Ltd. photographic output was used to create their vast array of postcards, which enjoyed great popularity. Like the photographs, the originals used to create the postcards have been lost but, again, Plâté is repurchasing the postcards from collectors.

There are approximately 6,000 postcard images presently held in albums. They are given sequential numbers as they are received, but further documentation is limited.

The following represents the contents of Postcard Album 7, which contains more than 220 unique postcards. Many were produced by the Plâté firm, but these albums also include postcards produced by other firms on the island at about the same time. Dates are not provided for the postcards, and some of them appear to have been produced later than the 1915 cutoff date for this study. However, since the date of production is not clear, this sample includes all postcards in the sequence, since no dating is provided. While many included in the albums are vintage postcards, some are reproductions. Many of the postcards are coloured, but this is often the result of colouring original black-and-white prints and postcards. The word “Ceylon” is often eliminated in this list from the printed titles if it doesn’t further contribute to the subject matter.

"The second edition of A Guide to Locating Photographs of Colonial Ceylon is a treasure trove for researchers in search of glimpses of late 19th and 20th century Sri Lanka. It lists library collections, private collections as well as virtual collections with links to the specific repositories. Students of photography will be well aware that the unequal power relations inherent in the production, circulation and consumption of the images listed in the guide make them an ambivalent source of information. Yet as polyvalent and ambiguous artefacts that hide as much as they reveal these photographs of colonial Sri Lanka will no doubt elicit critical and creative readings on the part of historians and other scholars. A very useful, timely and well-conceived guide!"

"All with interests in the visual culture of historical Sri Lanka will find the American Institute for Sri Lankan Studies "Guide to Locating Colonial Photographs" an essential resource. The consolidated information on collections in Sri Lanka is certainly a uniquely valuable feature. And the inclusion of international holdings will disclose happy discoveries for even the most expert explorers. The specifics in the subcollection sections and the hyperlinks to online images are noteworthy features."

"While Lankan politics continues to be infused by the activism of artists and film-makers, this invaluable catalogue brings together the rich range of photographs of the island in an era of high imperialism. It documents many under-researched collections and so will be an essential starting point for anyone who wishes to understand why Lanka was and continues to be so heavily visualised."

SUJIT SIVASUNDARAM

Professor of History, University of Cambridge

Former Curator, British Library

"The publication of this updated and enlarged guide realises a heroic attempt to locate and document Sri Lanka's scattered photographic patrimony, now largely dispersed in public (and some private) collections across the world. As well as tracking down and describing many previously little-known collections, the contributors have included equally valuable information on online finding aids, links and conditions of usage. The entries in this new edition of the catalogue reflect the richness of early photography from Sri Lanka and represent an indispensable resource for researchers, not only in photographic history, but in a wide variety of cultural studies."
